JUNE 16

FRANKLIN PARK GOLF COURSE

Welcome

Friday, June 16, 2006

Dear Friends,

Welcome to today's 20th Annual UMass Boston Golf Classic!!

The golf tournament continues to be the single largest fundraising event sponsored by the UMass Boston Athletics Department. The revenue generated today provides support for all 14 UMass Boston varsity teams, finances the annual awards banquet and permits the University to provide its available athletic facilities and resources to the Greater Boston community.

In addition to your support, several local businesses are supporting the golf tournament as tournament sponsors. Please make yourself aware of the tournament sponsors and whenever possible contact these businesses for the goods and services they can provide you.

As a reminder, please visit the UMass Boston Athletics Department website, www.athletics.umb.edu for complete information on the Department.

We hope to see you at the Clark Athletic Center during the 2006-07 season to see the student-athletes and coaches guiding their teams to victories. The upcoming season promises to be a special one by building on the successes of 2006.

Keep your shots on the fairway and thank you for your continued support of the Beacons!!

Sincerely,

In the world of construction, quality and safety are critical to every project. Which is why leading architects, general contractors, building owners, and facility managers throughout Eastern Massachusetts rely on the skilled union electricians of Local 103 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) and the professional electrical contractors of the Greater Boston Chapter of the National Electrical Contractors Association (NECA).

For more than a century, IBEW and NECA have literally helped build our region. From our most cherished historical sites and renowned educational institutions, to major transportation projects, leading technology companies, community schools, and libraries, our landmarks shed light on a century of electrical construction unsurpassed in quality.

Take a close look at just a few of the recently completed projects by Local 103 and NECA Greater Boston Chapter members. It will tell you where to turn for the highest standards in electrical and telecom construction.

Serving The Community

Intercollegiate athletics, intramurals and recreation for students, staff and faculty are the primary programs of the UMass Boston Department of Athletics. The department offers 14 varsity sports and is a member of the NCAA's Division III. UMass Boston has teams competing in the ECAC, the Little East Conference and ECAC East Ice Hockey. Ninety-three Beacons in seven sports have been named All-Americans. The women's indoor and outdoor track and field teams had an outstanding record of achievement, including four NCAA Team Championships and 37 individual NCAA Championships.

But the Department of Athletics has another important concern as well--service to the community. Whether it's complimentary use of the University's athletic facilities, coaches' and student athletes' sports clinics for youth groups, or holiday visits to area hospitals, UMass Boston Athletics is in the forefront of serving area neighborhoods and communities throughout the state.

- More than 150 school, charitable, government and private organizations use UMass Boston athletic facilities each year at little or no cost.
- Over 200,000 people visit our athletic facilities each year, as participants or spectators.
- UMass Boston's indoor and outdoor athletic facilities are in use by visitors for over 2100 hours each year.
- In 2004 the National Consortium for Academics and Sports named the Department of Athletics at UMass Boston as # 1 in the country for Community Service for the seventh straight year.
- UMass Boston earned a National Association of Division III Athletics Administrators/Jostens Community Service Award for the second consecutive year.

UMass Boston is in a unique position as the only public university in the City of Boston. For that reason, the University has a responsibility above and beyond its mission to provide a superior higher education at moderate cost to the people of the metropolitan area. Because of its urban environment and its spacious, coastline location, the University can reach out to its neighbors and provide first rate facilities for healthy, stimulating sports and recreational activities.

National Consortium for Academics and Sports member institutions develop Outreach and Community Service programs with current student-athletes and former student-athletes from the Degree Completion Program. Over the last twenty years, NCAS member institutions, through their outreach and community service programs, have reached more than 13 million youth nationwide with messages about violence prevention, gender sensitivity, conflict resolution, the importance of academics and athletics, staying in school, the dangers of drugs and alcohol, and much more. Since 1985, NCAS student-athletes have given over 14.2 million hours of community service.

There is no one way to conduct school outreach programs. It is clear from the great work done by NCAS members that there are many ways to provide quality programs. Their diversity and Going far beyond the conventional assembly-style programs, UMass Boston's teams make it a point to get out in the community and be visible, while lending a helping hand. Here are just a few examples:

- Nazzarro Community Center Basketball Clinic – Women's Basketball
- Fidelity House Basketball Clinic – Women's Basketball
- Martin Luther King Day – Athletes cooked and served dinner to Harbor Point residents
- Good Neighbor Day – Women's softball cleaned out the Harbor point area
- Beacon Dash – Cross Country teams sponsor and run the event with proceeds going to the Early Learning Center
- Bring Your Child to Work Day – Womens' basketball ran a clinic for 30 kids along with arts and crafts
- Africa Youth Education and Sports Program – Men's and Women's basketball coaches and players went on a trip to Africa for clinics in coaching and skills; serving hundreds of African youth

UMass Boston Athletics

UMass Boston's Department of Athletics annually affords approximately 300 students the chance to participate in competitive sporting events through its 26 varsity and intramural teams and clubs. The University offered 14 varsity sports in the 2005-06 academic year, in which student-athletes competed at the NCAA Division III level, with additional programs falling under intramural sports.

The primary purpose of the athletic and recreation programs at UMass Boston are to enhance the collegiate experience of all students by providing extensive opportunities that foster healthy interaction and competition among members of the student body.

The varsity intercollegiate program sponsors teams for men in basketball, hockey, soccer, baseball, lacrosse, tennis and cross country. For women, varsity teams compete in basketball, volleyball, softball, soccer, tennis, ice hockey and cross country.

With those guidelines in place, the UMass Boston Athletic Department has firmly established itself as one of the strongest and most well-rounded programs in New England. No Division III public institution in Greater Boston can boast the breadth of athletic opportunities open to UMass Boston students and few departments can match the Beacons' overall success on the playing field.

Since 1981, when the varsity athletics program began at UMass Boston, the Beacons have won four NCAA Division III national team championships, 22 individual titles and have seen 21 athletes achieve All-America status a total of 94 times. That record cannot be matched by any other UMass campus, and only one other state school in New England comes close.

The 2005-06 season saw the UMass Boston Men's basketball team capture its first Little East Conference crown and earn its first NCAA Tournament bid in 23 years. The men's lacrosse team advanced to the semifinals of the ECAC New England tournament, marking its second straight appearance in the post-season tourney and it's third in six seasons. The women's ice hockey team earned it's third straight ECAC East playoff berth and advanced to the semifinals for the second time in three campaigns. In addition to their on-the-field accomplishments, Beacon athletes also make a positive impact on the community. In the past year alone, the Department of Athletics has expanded its already strong ties to the Greater Boston community by offering a number of instructional clinics designed to develop an appreciation for sports among local children.

The University

The University of Massachusetts Boston was established in 1964 to provide the opportunity for superior education at moderate cost to the people of greater Boston.

Starting out in a downtown Boston location, the university moved to its current 175-acre campus on the Columbia Point peninsula in 1974 and merged with Boston State College in 1982. A commuter school, UMass Boston is nationally recognized as a model of excellence for urban universities.

UMass Boston enrolled 11,682 students in the 2004-2005 academic year, with 8,832 undergraduate students and 2,850 graduate students comprising a multicultural and diverse student body. Students of all ages are enrolled at UMass Boston and students of color make up 33 percent of the university's undergraduate enrollment. More than 80 languages are spoken in the homes of members of the 2004 graduating class.

UMass Boston's six colleges offer over 100 undergraduate majors, 61 master's programs, and 14 doctoral programs, while the university's 26 institutes and centers are actively involved in research, professional public service and community outreach. More than 290 active research and training grants attracted $30.5 million in external funds for the fiscal year 2003. The university employs 821 distinguished faculty members, including Lloyd Schwartz, winner of the Pulitzer Prize for Criticism.

Located in the Boston community of Dorchester, UMass Boston offers excellent views of downtown Boston, the Harbor Islands and Dorchester Bay. UMass Boston shares its campus with the John F. Kennedy Library, which offers its archival resources to UMass Boston students and instructors. The university's own Healey Library is an information gateway to more than 600,000 books and journals on campus and to thousands of electronic information resources on the Internet.

Other academic facilities include the biology department's three greenhouses, which host collections of plant species native to tropical, desert and temperate climates, and The Learning Center, a professional development and technology facility for faculty and staff, which opened in 1996.

The Clark Athletic Center is home to UMass Boston's varsity athletics program and features a 3,500-seat arena, a hockey arena that seats 1,000, and a swimming and diving facility equipped for intercollegiate competition. The Beacon Fitness Center is equipped with more than 25 cardiovascular machines, a universal weight machine, 16 Nautilus stations and free weights. The Fitness Center also houses two racquetball courts, a squash court, an aerobics room, a walking track and a two-level lounge.

The newest major addition to the UMass Boston landscape is the 331,000-square-foot Campus Center — a $50 million project which centralizes student services and activities. The campus' new "front entrance" opened in April of 2004.

Located three miles from the downtown district, UMass Boston combines hands-on learning in a metropolitan setting with the scenic surroundings of one of the nation's most historic cities.

Why UMass Boston?

There's no doubt. The city of Boston and the surrounding area boast many of the world's finest institutions of higher learning. And UMass Boston is one of them. Here's why you should consider UMass Boston.

 UMass Boston is a member of the Little East Conference, which is unquestionably one of the top Division III conferences in the nation.

 Aside from providing a competitive playing environment, the UMB athletic department also doubles as a place where students can receive hands-on training in nearly all facets of athletics administration.

 At UMass Boston, you learn from the best. A faculty with more Harvard Ph.Ds than any school in the United States (except Harvard).

 The university is the only educational institution in the Northeast that shares its campus with a presidential library.

 UMass Boston has won four NCAA Division III national championships, 19 individual national titles and has seen 21 different athletes achieve All-America status a total of 94 times.

 Our home, the Clark Athletic Center, is one of the best Division III athletic facilities in New England.

 UMass Boston is the only four-year, state-supported institution inside the Interstate 95 beltway.

 Students have the opportunity to commute from home or live off-campus with teammates.

 We're located just three miles from downtown Boston with all of the city's major attractions easily accessible from the campus.

Academic Advising

At UMass Boston we prepare our students for life.

And because the life of a college student can be much more challenging than a basketball game or a soccer match, the UMass Boston athletic department provides you with the means to be successful in whatever sport you play, and also in the game of life.

UMass Boston's academic advising center for student athletes is designed to help each Beacon athlete in every sport complete his or her undergraduate degree. We make sure that our students are not solely concerned with maintaining athletic eligibility. We work extensively with the faculty and professional staff on-campus, and we help our students with course selection, advising and counseling, and career and graduate school exploration.

When you enroll at UMass Boston, you will get to know your advisor quite well. One of our primary focuses is freshman-year retention, so we are highly motivated in your first year to work with you to develop a plan for academic success. Your advisor will meet with you on a one-to-one basis and introduce you to the Clark

Athletic Center's computer lab--a fully equipped facility open exclusively to UMB student-athletes.

Your academic advisor will also work with your professors. Your instructors will update the athletic department with progress reports, and when you are having trouble, they will let us know. But more importantly, they'll let us know how we can help you.

As a student athlete at UMass Boston you will have unique opportunities to represent the University on a national level and in national programs.

Sports Medicine

Quite simply, the sports medicine center at UMass Boston is one of the best in the area. It combines the best facility with the best people -- all with the goal of keeping Beacon student-athletes healthy.

The sports medicine room falls under the direction of head athletic trainer Ed Perkins, a UMass Boston graduate and former athlete with the Beacons. Before taking over at UMB, Ed worked with the nationally ranked men's basketball team at Temple University before returning to Division III athletics at MIT and at Bridgewater State College.

A.J. Rourke, a certified athletic trainer in her own right, is the university's assistant athletic trainer. A.J.'s credentials include a stint with Marietta College, where she worked with the nationally ranked baseball program, and nine summers working with top major league baseball prospects in the prestigious Cape Cod League.

What that means to you is that when you become a member of the Beacons, you are in the safest environment possible. Whether it be injury prevention, evaluation, treatment, or rehabilitation, the training staff at UMass Boston is looking out for you.

Before you are eligible for competition, you will be required to undergo a thorough physical examination. You will be monitored throughout the training phase and competitive season. And the training staff works closely with your head coach to make your participation in Beacon athletics as safe as it can be.

To ensure quality individual care, the training staff regularly acquires the latest and most effective modalities. The sports medicine center at UMass Boston is equipped with a four-channel electrical stimulation with combination ultrasound unit, a paraffin bath, two hydrocollator units, a Jobst compression unit and a whirlpool bath.

Strength & Conditioning

The University of Massachusetts Boston is one of the few NCAA III schools in the country to offer a year round strength and conditioning program.

The varsity weight room is designed to improve all areas of athletic performance for all sports. The strength and conditioning coach is a certified professional. The focus is to educate and train athletes on how to properly execute exercises that will allow them to be more efficient with the sports specific movements and enable them to participate with a reduced chance of injury. Our goal is to produce athletes who are faster, stronger and more powerful, in order for them to compete at their highest level.

Clark Athletic Center

The student athlete at UMass Boston has a wealth of athletic and recreational facilities available within the confines of the Clark Athletic Center.

The athletic center has served as the home of the Beacon basketball program since its completion in 1981.

Named for Catherine Forbes Clark, a former trustee of the University of Massachusetts system and prominent Dorchester civic leader, the Clark Athletic Center emulates its namesake by serving the University community as well as area residents throughout the year.

Considered one of the finest athletic and recreational facilities in Greater Boston, the complex accommodates the school's 14 intercollegiate sports and extensive intramural program. The Center's building houses a main gymnasium, which includes a 3,500-seat basketball arena along with three auxiliary basketball courts and two volleyball courts, a 1,000-seat ice rink, and an Olympic-size swimming pool with a high-dive area, six 25-yard lanes and an observation deck. A weightroom, creative room and a sports medicine area round out the interior of the structure.

Outside the building, UMass Boston boasts an eight-lane 400-meter track, eight tennis courts, a softball diamond and two multipurpose fields primarily used for soccer and lacrosse. The outdoor facilities also include a boathouse and dock for the sailing program as well as several recreational fields.

In addition to extensive use by the intercollegiate and intramural programs, the Clark Athletic Center serves as the site for numerous community activities. Included in the list of community activities are a variety of events for both youth and the physically challenged. UMass Boston hosts the National Youth Sports

Program, an NCAA-sponsored summer camp for inner-city youth, as well as the Dana Barros Basketball Camp, the All Dorchester Sports League, the Boston Youth Games, the Boston Housing Authority Jamboree, the Bay State Games and MIAA state tournament games in soccer, ice hockey and basketball.

The athletic center became the new home of the Boston Shootout, the premier high school basketball tournament in the nation, in 1997 and has served as a workout facility for the Boston Celtics and the 2000 McDonald's All-American High School Basketball team, while also serving as the site of the Sprite Slam Jam. During the summer of 1999, the center began hosting the Shaw's Summer Pro League, featuring current and future stars of the NBA. The center also hosts the Indiana Pacers and San Antonio Spurs during the NBA season, serving as a practice site for both of those teams on their visits to Boston.

The Clark Athletic Center saw its most excitement for 2000 in just one night when on October 3rd, the University hosted the first United States Presidential Debate of 2000. When the parties finally agreed to the Boston debate, the event was suddenly only two weeks away. In that time frame the Clark Athletic Center had to be converted into a debate hall and the adjacent hockey rink into a media center, replete with red carpet, approximately 700 phones, more than 70 televisions, and accommodations for almost 1,600 media representatives from around the world.

UMass Boston also boasts one of the finest personal fitness facilities in the area in the Beacon Fitness Center. The state-of-the-art recreational area provides students, faculty and staff with modern equipment in a clean environment.

The fitness center offers cardiovascular machines, nautilus and free weights, squash and racquetball courts, a walking track and aerobics.
